

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Throughout the book the English is given under the French ; but it does not necessarily follow that the English word is the translation of the French word immediately above it.

INTRODUCTION.

INTENDED FOR OUR YOUNG READERS' FRIENDS.

I.—The French Alphabet consists of 26 letters:—

A,	a,	a,	pronounced like in ah ! bar, far.

S,	s,	s,	" " search.
T,	t,	t,	" " term.
U,	u,	u,	like the German ü , but has no corresponding sound in English ; something like u in consecutive.
V,	v,	v,	pronounced like in veneer.
W,	w,	w (=dooble v),	only used in words of foreign origin ; is sounded like v ; but it keeps the English pronunciation in words borrowed from the English.
X,	x,	x,	pronounced like in exertion, exercise.
Y,	y,	y,	(ee grec) like in fleet.
Z,	z,	z,	like in English.

* C is soft before e and i, and hard before a, o, u.

† G is soft before e and i, and hard before a, o, u.

II.—Accents and other Signs.

There are three accents, placed over the vowels a, e, i, o, u.
The vowel y never takes an accent.

- (a.) Accent aigu ('), acute accent, over e only.
- (b.) Accent grave ('), grave accent over a, e, u.
- (c.) Accent circonflexe (^), circumflex accent, over a, e, i, o, u.

The other marks are: Tréma ("), diaresis, over e, i, u, when they are to be pronounced distinct from the preceding vowel.

Apostrophe ('), apostrophe, when a, e, i, are to be dropped before a following vowel.

Cédille (ç), cedilla, under the c only when it must be sounded as s, before a, o, or u.

Trait d'union (-), hyphen, which connects two or three words together.

III.—Pronunciation of Vowels.

- 1—a bref (short) is pronounced like a in cat, chat (pronounce shah).
- 2—â long (long, with a circumflex accent), or a followed by s is long, like in arm: âme, soul; bras, arm.
- 3—a is silent in aôut, August (pronounce oo); toast (like in English); Sâone, river Saone (pronounce sown).
- 4—e muet (silent, i.e., without accent), is hardly sounded in a word, something like u in butter.
- 5—e muet, is not sounded at all at the end of words of more than one syllable, like e in mute.
- 6—e is silent in Caen (pronounce Khan). See Nasal Sounds, 82.
- 7—e fermé (close, i.e., with an acute accent) sounds like y in vanity, vanité in French.
- 8—è ouvert (open, i.e., with a grave accent), like e in where: près, near.
- 9—ê (with a circumflex), like ai in the English word air: être, to be.
- 10—i bref, is sounded like i in vanity: ici (pronounce like the two English letters e, c), here.

- 11—é long (with a circumflex), like ee in beet: île (pronounced eel), island.
- 12—i is silent in oignon (onion), moignon (stump), poignée (handful), poignet (wrist), poigne (grip), poignard (dagger).
- 13—o bref (without accent), like o in not: notre (our).
- 14—ö long (with a circumflex), or o followed by s, like o in no, or oa in boat: apôtre (apostle), gros (big).
- 15—o is silent in paon (peacock), faon (fawn), Laon (Laon, a town in France), and taon (gadfly).
- 16—u has no corresponding sound in English; it sounds something like in accurate, consecutive.
- 17—ü is not pronounced after g, except in aiguille (needle), aiguiser (to sharpen), aiguillon (goad), aiguillonner (to excite), inextinguible (inextinguishable), and the proper name Guise.
- 18—y after a vowel sounds like two i's, pays (pai-is), country; but in all other cases like one i.

IV.—Diphthongs, and Combination of Vowels.

- 19—ai, final of verbs, is pronounced like é: J'ai, I have.
- 20—ai, followed by a consonant, and ait, are pronounced like ai in air: faire, to do, to make. N.B.—ai is sounded like e unaccented in this verb faire, when followed by sant, sons, sais, sait, sions, siez, saient; i.e., in the present participle, faisant; the first person plural of the present Indicative, nous faisons; and the whole of the imperfect Indicative.
- 21—ais and aint, are pronounced like long ai in baiting; j'avais (I had), ils auraient (they would have).
- 22—au, eau, aud, aut, and aus, are always long, and pronounced like o in show.
- 23—Em, emn, and en have the sound of a in family, in femme (woman), indemnité (indemnity), hennir (to neigh), solennel (solemn), and in all the adverbs of manner ending in emment.
- 24—er (final of verbs of the first conjugation), es, ed, et, and ier, are pronounced like é:—parler (to speak), vous-avez (you have), pied (foot), premier (first), soulier (shoe), panier (basket), jardinier (gardener), paquet (parcel).

- 24—b—er, not final of verbs, is sounded like ore in dare: fier (proud), hiver (winter), fer (iron), hier (yesterday), mer (sea), tender (tender of a railway engine).
- 25—es, in monosyllables, is sounded like é: des (of the), mes, my.
- 26—es, in words of more than one syllable, is not sounded: tables (tables), tu aimes (thou lovest).
- 27—ei, and ey, in the middle or at the end of words, are sounded like et in leisure: enseigner (to teach), bey (bey).
- 28—elle, effe, esse, enne, erre, ette—the first e is pronounced é, like in elbow, chapelle (chapel), greffe (graft), paresse (idleness), antienne (anthem), pierre (stone), assiette (plate); pronounce cha-pè-l', grè-f', pa-rè-s', an-ti-é-n', piè-r', a-ssiè-t'.
- 29—eu, eux, eu, and *eu*s (plural of œuf, egg), like e in her; except eu and eus, the past participle, and the past definite of the verb avoir (to have), which are pronounced ü.
- 30—Ou, like o in do, or like two English oo's, as in too.
- 31—oi, like oa (the sound of the French a being short): oiseau (bird), pronounce oa-zö.

V.—Nasal Sounds.

- 32—am, em (before b and p), an, aon, and ent, are sounded like en in encore. N.B.—Ent is silent in verbs, when it is the termination of the third person plural of a tense.
- 33—en, in the body of words, is sounded like an: entendre (to hear); but like in, at the end of words: examen (examination), except in abdomen, amen, etc. (See § 72.)
- 34—im, in, aim, ain, are pronounced something like en in length. In, followed by a vowel, either at the beginning or at the end of a word, has the same sound as the English preposition in: inutile (useless), cousine (cousin), (fem.)
- 35—imm and inn, at the beginning of a word, are always followed by a vowel, and sounded as in English: immortel (immortal), innombrable (innumerable).
- 36—om and on, before a consonant, like on in don't. Before a vowel the o is pronounced separately, and the m or n is joined to the following vowel, like in English: omelette (o-me-lët), omelet; onéreux (o-né-reux), onerous.

37—un, un, followed by a consonant, are sounded something like un in hung (the g being kept silent). When un is before a vowel the u makes a syllable, and the n is sounded with the following vowel : unanime (u-na-nime), unanimous.

VI.—Consonants.

B.

38—B is silent in plomb (lead), but is sounded in radoub (refitting of a ship),* club (club), rob (rubber, at whist), and in proper names : Joab, Job, Jacob, etc. It is always pronounced when it is not final : subtil (subtile), abjurser (to abjure).

C.

39—C is hard before a, o, u, and soft before e, i, and y. With a cedilla it is always soft.

40—C final is generally sounded : bec (beak), aqueduc (aqueduct).

41—C final is not sounded in accroc (rent or tear), ajonc (furze), banc (form or bench), blanc (white), broc (jug or can), clerc (clerk), cric (screw-jack), croc (hook), échecs (chess), escroc (swindler), estomac (stomach), flanc (flank or side), franc (frank), jonc (rush), lace (snare, gin), marc (residuum—e.g., marc de café, grounds of coffee), porc (pork), raccroc (chance, lucky hit), tabac (tobacco), tronc (trunk of a tree).

42—C final is sounded in the singular échec (check); and in dono (then, therefore), when it begins a sentence. In all other cases it is not sounded, and dono is pronounced don.

43—C has the sound of g in second (second) and its derivatives.

44—CH is usually sounded as the English sh, but it has the sound of K in almost all words derived from the Greek, as : archange (archangel), chœur (choir), etc.; and in the word yacht.

45—CH is silent in almanach (almanack).

46—Cr is silent in respect (respect, regard), aspect (aspect, sight, look), instinct (instinct), when followed by a consonant ;

* According to the " Dictionnaire de l'Académie Française " the b is to be sounded in radoub; but Littré observes that sailors never sound it, even when it is followed by a vowel.

but if followed by a vowel the c is sounded like k; e.g., aspect agréable, aspèk agréable; respect affecté=respek affecté; instinct impérieux=instink impérieux. In the plural of these substantives ct is always silent: aspects agréables=aspès agréables; respects affectés=respès affectés; instincts impérieux=instin-s-impérieux.

D.

- 47—D final, which is usually silent, is sounded in sud (south), éphod (ephod, a part of the Jewish sacerdotal vestment), and in proper names: David, Obed, Joad, Cid.
- 48—D final, carried on to the next word, has the same sound as the hard T, as: ce grand homme répond à tout (that great man replies to everything), read: ce grant homme répond à tout.
- 49—D final in a substantive is not sounded on the following adjective, even if it begins with a vowel, as: un froid extrême (a very cold weather), read: un froi extrême; nor on the conjunctions et and ou, as: le froid et le chaud (cold and warm weather); le chaud ou le froid (warm or cold weather), read: le froi et le chau; le chau et le froi.

E.

- 50—F final is sounded like V in neuf, dix-neuf, vingt-neuf, etc., if the following noun or adjective begins with a vowel or h silent: neuf hommes (nine men) is pronounced neuv-(h)ommes. If the following noun or adjective begins with a consonant the f is silent: neuf livres (nine books) is pronounced neu livres.
- 51—F final is sounded in canif (penknife), and neuf (nine or new), numeral or qualificative adjective, at the end of a sentence, as: Combien de plumes avez-vous? J'en ai neuf (How many pens have you? I have nine). J'ai un chapeau neuf (I have a new hat).
- 52—F final is silent in clé (key), chef-d'œuvre (master-piece), cerf (stag), un cerf-volant (a kite), un œuf frais (a new-laid egg), un œuf dur (a hard-boiled egg), le bœuf gras (the fatted ox), du bœuf salé (salt beef), des œufs (some eggs), des bœufs (oxen), les nerfs (the nerves).

53—F final is sounded in un chef (a chief), un bœuf (an ox), un œuf (an egg), un serv (a slave).

G.

54—G final is usually silent.

55—G final is silent in the words formed with bourg and berg: faubourg (suburb), Strasbourg, Spitsberg, Wurtemberg, etc. Also in coing (quince), étang (pond), rang (rank), sang (blood), long (long), poing (fist), hareng (herring), seing (signature).

56—G final sounds like K before a vowel, as: un rang élevé (a high rank), un sang illustré (an illustrious family), are pronounced un rank élevé, un sank illustré; suer sang et eau (to toil and moil), is pronounced suer sank et eau.

57—G is silent in doigt (finger), legs (legacy), sangsue (leech), vingt (twenty), and its derivatives.

58—G before e, i, and y has the sound of j in joue (cheek), jour (day), as: du gingembre (some ginger).

59—G is sounded in joug (yoke), grog (grog), and zigzag.

60—Gn at the beginning of words is pronounced like two different letters, as: gnome, pronounced guenôme.

61—Gn in a word is pronounced softly like the g in signing, as: agneau (lamb), digne (worthy), régner (to reign), nous craignons (we fear). But in the word stagnation and some few others both the g and n are sounded. In signet (book-maker), and in the proper names Clugny, Regnaud, and Regnard, the g is silent, and the n keeps its natural sound.

H.

62—H is either silent, as in huître (oyster), habiter (to dwell), hésiter (to hesitate), or aspirate, as in haricot (bean), hibou (owl), héros (hero). But even when said to be aspirate, h is not breathed in French as in English—that is to say, that to sound the h “aspirate,” a simple hiatus is sufficient in French, as: les héros (the heroes), pronounced lè-héros, instead of léséros, as we pronounce les hommes (the men), lèsommes.

63—In the greater part of French words the h is silent; but there are nearly three hundred words in which it is aspirate.

We only give here those which are most in use:—

Hache , axe.	Hérisser , to bristle up.
Hagard , haggard.	Héros , hero.
Hais , hedge.	Hêtre , beech-tree.
Haillon , rag.	Heurter , to strike against.
Haine , hatred.	Hibou , owl.
Halle , market-place.	Hideux , hideous.
Halte , halt.	Hisser , to hoist.
Haricot , bean.	Homard , lobster.
Harangue , speech.	Honte , shame.
Harasser , to harass.	Hors , out.
Hardi , bold.	Houblon , hops.
Hareng , herring.	Houille , coal.
Harnacher , to harness.	Houle , surge.
Harpe , harp.	Houppé , tuft.
Hasard , hazard.	Housse , saddle-cloth.
Hâte , haste.	Houx , holly.
Haut , high.	Huit , eight.
Havre , haven.	Hurler , to howl.
Hennir , to neigh.	Hutte , hut.
Héraut , herald.

N.B.—If h is “aspirate” in a word in its simplest form, it is also in the derivatives, except in the case of héros, in the derivatives of which the h is silent, as l'héroïne (the heroine), l'héroïsme (heroism). As for huit, the h becomes silent in dix-huit (eighteen), soixante-dix-huit (seventy-eight), quatre-vingt-dix-huit (ninety-eight), and vingt-huit (twenty-eight)—pronounce di-suit, and vin-tuit; but h is again “aspirate” in quatre-vingt-huit (eighty-eight).

64.—L liquid is always preceded by an i, either in the body or at the end of a word.

65.—In a word, the i is followed by two l's, the first of which is sounded like l, add the second like y, as in bouteille (bottle), pronounce bouteil-ye; abeille, (bee)=abeil-ye;

bouillir (to boil)=bouil-yir; fille (girl or daughter)=fil-ye; famille (family)=famil-ye.

66—At the end of a word the i is only followed by one l, which, however, is liquid, and sounded like the two l's in the middle of the word, as: ail (garlic)=ail-ye; travail (work)=travail-ye; camail (a short cloak worn by cardinals, etc.)=camail-ye; éventail (fan)=éventail-ye; soleil (sun)=soleil-ye; pareil (alike)=pareil-ye; orteil (toe)=orteil-ye; avril (April)=Avril-ye; babil (prattle)=babil-ye; mil (millet)=mil-ye; péril (peril, danger)=péril-ye; orgueil (pride)=orgueil-ye; fenouil (fennel)=fenouil-ye; and most words ending in ail, eil, ueil, and ouil.

67—Exceptions: (1) Ill is not liquid at the beginning of words, as illégal (unlawful), illégitime (illegitimate), etc., etc., and at the end of some few others, such as mille (a thousand), ville (town).

68—(2) L is silent in baril (cask), chenil (kennel), coutil (ticking), fil (son), fournil (bake-house), fusil (gun), gentil (pretty), gril (gridiron), outil (tool), persil (parsley), pouls (pulse), soul (drunk), sourcil (eyebrow), and in the plural gentils-hommes (noblemen).

69—L keeps its usual sound in calme (calm), cil (eyelash), exil (exile), fil (thread), Nil (Nile), profil (profile), subtil (subtile), mil (thousand, in dates of the Christian era), civil (courteous), vil (vile), pupille (pupil of the eye, or pupil, one under the care of a guardian), distiller (to distill), vaciller (to waver).

M.

70—M is silent in automne (autumn), damner (to curse), condamner (to condemn), damnation (damnation), condamnation (condemnation, sentence).

71—At the beginning of a word emm is nasal, as emmener (to take away), pronounce en-mener; emmancher (to fit a handle to)=en-mancher.

N.

72—N final is silent, but abdomen, amen, Eden are pronounced abdomenn', amenn', Edenn'. Hymen is pronounced either imenn' or imain.

P.

- 73—P is mute in baptême (baptism), baptiser (to baptise, to christen), baptiste (baptist), compte (account), corps (body), dompter (to tame, to subdue), exempt (exempt), prompt (quick), sculpter (to sculpture, to carve), sculpteur (sculptor), sculpture (sculpture), sept (seven), and at the end of words, except cap (cape), and cép (vine-plant).
- 74—P is sounded in septembre (September), septuagénaire (septuagenarian), psaume (psalm), psalmiste (psalmist), psautier (psalter), and some few others.
- 75—Ph has the sound of f, as philosophie (philosophy), phtisie (consumption), etc.; pronounce filosofie, ftisie.

Q.

- 76—Q final is sounded in coq (cock) when used by itself, or when followed by a vowel, as: un coq (a cock), pronounced like in English; un coq-à-l'âne (cock-and-bull-story) = un cokalâne; but when the following word begins with a consonant the q is not sounded, as coq d'inde (turkey-cock), = côdinde. Q final is also sounded like a K in cinq (five), unless it is followed by a consonant, as: Combien de plumes avez-vous ? J'en ai cinq. (How many pens have you ? Five), pronounce ceink; but cinq garçons (five boys), pronounce cein. However, in the financial expression, cinq pour cent (five per cent.) the q is sounded.
- 77—When Q is not final, it is followed by u. It is generally pronounced like k, as quand (when)=kan; quatre (four)=katre; querelle (quarrel)=kerelle; qui (who)=ki (or in English kees); que (whom, or what)=ke or keu; quel (which or what)=kel.
- 78—But the u is sounded after q in équestre (equestrian), équilatéral (equilateral), équitation (riding, horsemanship), quintuple (five-fold), questeur (questor), questure (questorship).
- 79—Qu is pronounced cou in aquatique (aquatic), équateur (equator), équation (equation), quadripède (quadruped), quadruple (four-fold), in quarto, etc.

R.

- 80—R final, which is usually sounded, is silent—

- (a) In the termination—er, as : le boucher (the butcher), and in the infinitive of verbs of the first conjugation, as : parler (to speak).
 (b) In the termination—ier, as : l'officier (the officer), premier (first), écolier (school-boy).

81.—But it is sounded in—

MONOSTYLLABLES, as : hier (yesterday), mer (sea), fier (proud); (but r is not sounded in the verb fier (to trust), which is properly composed of two syllables, and is pronounced fi-ē).

82.—DISSYLLABLES, as : amer (bitter), auster (south wind), cancer (cancer), cuiller (spoon), spelt also cuillère, enfer (hell), éther (ether), thaler (thaler).

83.—R final is silent in the words (Monsieur and Messieurs), but is sounded in sieur.

84.—Rh has always the sound of R, as in rhume (cold), rhinocéros (rhinoceros).

S.

85.—S, when placed between two vowels, has the sound of s: (a) in the body of a word, as : reposer (to rest), pronounce reposé; and (b) at the end of a word when carried on to the next word beginning with a vowel or h silent, as : mes amis (my friends), pronounce mɛ-samis.

86.—But S has its usual sound in compound words, when the simple word begins with s as vraisemblable (likely)= vrai-semblable.

87.—S final, which is generally silent, is sounded in—

Albinos , albino.	Maïs , maize.
Aloës , aloes.	Mérinos , merine.
Atlas , atlas.	Omnibus , omnibus.
As , ace.	Plus-que-parfait , pluperfect.
Blocus , investment (of a town), blockade (of a port).	Prospectus , prospectus.
Calus , callosity.	Rhinocéros , rhinoceros.
Iris , iris, rainbow.	Tournevis , screw-driver.
Laps , lapse.	Vasistas (pronounce vasi- tas), casement window.
Lis , lily, but silent in fleur-de-lis .	Vis , screw;
and some others not often met with.

N.B.—In ours (bear) a great many people pronounce the s.

88—It is also sounded in words adopted from the Latin, as : bis (twice, encore !) chorus, gratis, hiatus, oremus (oremus, prayer), sinus (sinus), and in proper names (Latin or Greek) such as Bacchus, Crésus, Cyrus, Minos, Fallus, Sémiramis. [N.B.—S final is not sounded in bis (brown), as : du pain bis (brown bread), pronounce bee.]

The final s is not sounded before a consonant in Denis, Jésus, Judas, Mathias, Nicholas, Paris, Thomas.

89—S final is sounded like z in obus (shell).

90—S final is not sounded on the following vowel in the second person singular of the present indicative and subjunctive, as : tu aimes à jouer (thou likest to play); il faut que tu ailles à l'école (thou must go to school); pronounce tu aim-à jouer; tu aill-à l'école.

91—Sc is sounded like s in scène (scene, stage)=sēn'; scénique (scenical)=sēnik; sceptique (sceptic)=sē-ptik; science (science)=si-ans', and some other words.

T.

92—T at the beginning of words has the same sound as in English, even when it is followed by two vowels, as le tiers, the third.

93—T in the middle of words, when followed by the vowel i, is sometimes pronounced like t, and sometimes like s:

I. Like t :

(a) In all words where it is preceded by s or x, as bastion (bastion), bestial (beastly), digestion (digestion), mixture (mixture), question (question).

(b) In all words ending in tié or tier, as amitié (friendship), moitié (half), charpentier (carpenter), châtier (to chastise); except in the two verbs balbutier (to lisp) and initier (to initiate), and all its derivatives, where t is pronounced like s.

(c) In words ending in tie, as partie (part), modestie (modesty), etc., except in facétie (facetiousness), ineptie (silliness), inertie (sluggishness), minutie (trifle), prophétie (prophecy); and in words ending in atie, as démocratie (democracy), where t has the sound of s.

- (d) In words ending in tion and tienne, as Christien (Christian), maintien (maintenance), soutien (support), que je tienne (that I may hold), anthienne (anthem); except in proper names, as Dioclétien (Diocletian), and adjectives denoting nationality, as Vénitien Vénitienne (Venetian), where t is sounded like s.
- (e) In all the persons of verbs ending in tions and ties, as : nous partions, vous partiez (we were, you were starting) ; nous portions (we were carrying), but the substantive portions (portions) is pronounced porsions.

II. Like s :—

- (a) In the word patient (patient), and all its derivatives.
- (b) In words ending in tial, tiel, tion, as partial (partial), confidential (confidential), admiration (admiration), nation (nation).
- (c) In some words ending in tie and in all substantives ending in atie [see above, I. (c)].
- (d) In the words satiété (satiety), insatiable (insatiable).

94—T final is silent, except when followed by another word beginning with a vowel, as est-elle (is she), tout-à-fait (quite entirely) ; but it is ALWAYS SILENT in the conjunction et, and.

T final is sounded in the following words : Brut (raw, uncultivated), Christ (Christ), chut! (hush !), contact (contact), correct (correct), dot (dowry), direct (direct), exact (punctual, exact), est (east), fat (fop), granit (granite),* incorrect (incorrect), indirect (indirect), inexact (inaccurate), infest (infectious), intact (untouched, intact), knout (knout), lest (ballast), échec et mat (checkmate), net (clear, clean, net), ouest (west), rit or rites (rite), strict (strict), toast or tests (toast) ut (or do, the note C in music), whist (whist).

95—In sept (seven) and huit (eight) the t is silent when the following word begins with a consonant or h aspirate, as : sept haches (seven axes), sept francs (seven francs), huit couteaux (eight knives) = sé haches, etc.

* Also pronounced grani(t).

Toast (toast),	pronounce Tōst.
Août (August),	„ Oû.
Franc (frank),	„ Fran.
Clef (key),	„ Clé.
Goth (Goth),	„ Gōt.
Al-ma-nach (almanac),	„ Al-ma-na.

Joie (joy),	„ Joi.
Sang-sue (leech),	„ San-sū.
Oi-gnon (onion),	„ O-gnon.
Dé-vou-e-ment (devotedness)	„ Dé-vou-ment.
Il niera (he will deny),	„ Il ni-ra.
Saône (river Saone)	„ Sône.
Taon (ox-fly)	„ Tan.

The final letters in such words as the following are to be pronounced only when they are followed by a vowel or h silent:

Bout (end).	(ils) Pen-sent † (they think).
Es-prit (mind).	Pe-tit (small).
Gens (people).	Plus (more).
Heu-reu (happy).	Pot (pot).
Hon-teu * (ashamed).	Bang (rang).
Long (long).	Sang (blood).

Petit Bonhomme vit Encore !THE LITTLE MAN IS ALIVE STILL !

1.—Je vous vends mon allumette,
I sell you my little match,

Toute vivante, toute vivelette !
All alive, all alive !

2.—Je vous prends votre allumette,
I take your little match,

Toute vivante, toute vivelette !
All alive, all alive !

N.B.—The player who passes the lighted bit of wood says No. 1;
the one who takes it from him says No. 2.

Trop Serré.TOO TIGHT.

Je n'peux pas danser,
I can't dance,

Ma pantoufle est trop étroite ;
My slipper is too tight ;

Je n'peux pas danser
I can't dance

Parce que j'ai trop mal au pied !
Because my foot hurts me so !

Du Feu!
FIRE!

Chauffons ! Chauffons !
Let us warm ourselves !

Ma commère Jeanneton,
Mother Janet,

Prête-moi ton faucillon
Lend me your bill-hook

Pour couper une épinette
To cut some wood

Pour chauffer ma p'tite fillette.
To warm my little girl.

La Fin du Conte.
THE END OF THE TALE.

J'ai passé par la porte Saint-Denis,
I went under the gate Saint-Denis,

J'ai marché sur la queue d'une souris,
I stepped on the tail of a mouse,

La souris a fait cri cri !
The mouse said queeck, queeck !

Et mon p'tit conte est fini.
And there's an end to my tale.

Are going to marry on Monday ;

Ils ont bien de monde assez,
They have quite enough guests,

Mais de pain il n'en ont point.
But they have no bread.

Par là passent deux pigeons
See yonder come two pigeons

Dans leur bec tiennent un pain rond ;
With a round loaf in their beaks ;

Ils ont bien de pain assez,
Now they have quite enough bread,

Mais de viande il n'en ont point.
But they have no meat.

Par là passent trois corbeaux
See yonder come three crows

Dans leur bec tiennent un gigot ;
With a leg of mutton in their beaks ;

Ils ont bien de viande assez
Now they have enough meat

Mais de vin ils n'en ont point.
But they have no wine.

Par là passent six souris
See yonder come six mice

Sur leur queue tiennent un baril ;
With a barrel on their tails ;

Ils ont bien de vin assez,
Now they have quite enough wine,

Mais de musique n'en ont point.
But they have no music.

Par là passent trois gros rats
See yonder come three big rats

Tenant un violon sous leurs bras ;
With a fiddle under their arms ;

— Bonjour, bonjour, la compagnie,
Good-morning, good-morning all,

N'y a-t-il pas de chats ici ?
Are there no cats here ?

— Entrez, entrez, mes beaux messieurs,
Come in, come in, my fine sirs,

Le chat dort au coin du feu.
The cat's asleep by the fire.

Le chat s'étant éveillé
But the cat awoke

Mangea toute la société !
And ate up all the company !

Le Petit Oiseau.

THE LITTLE BIRD.

God made me to fly,

Gentils, gentils enfants,
Dear, dear children,

Dieu m'a fait pour voler,
God made me to fly,

Laissez-moi m'en aller
Let me fly away.

—Non, nous te donnerons,
No, we will give you,

Petit, petit oiseau,
Little, little birdie,

Non, nous te donnerons,
No, we will give you,

Biscuits, sucre, bonbons.

Biscuits, sugar and sweets.

Grows only in the fields.

—Nous te gardons encor

We keep for you besides,

Petit, petit oiseau,

Little, little birdie,

Nous te gardons encor

We keep for you besides

Une cage en fil d'or.

A cage with gold wires.

—La plus belle maison,

The finest house,

Gentils, gentils enfants,

Dear, dear children,

La plus belle maison,
The finest house,
Pour moi n'est que prison.
Is but a prison for me.

—Tu dis la vérité,
You have spoken the truth,
Petit, petit oiseau,
Little, little birdie,
Tu dis la vérité,
You have spoken the truth,
Reprends ta liberté.
Be free again.

THE SONG OF THE WOOL.

I.La laine du mouton

The wool of the sheep

Demande à être tondu;

Must be sheared;

On la tond, on la tond,

It is sheard, it is sheard,

La laine du mouton.

The wool of the sheep.

II.La laine du mouton

The wool of the sheep

Demande à être lavée;

Must be washed;

On la lave, on la lave,

It is washed, it is washed,

La laine du mouton.

The wool of the sheep.

III.

La laine du mouton
The wool of the sheep

Demande à être séchée ;
Must be dried ;

On la sèche, on la sèche,
It is dried, it is dried,

La laine du mouton.
The wool of the sheep.

IV.

La laine du mouton
The wool of the sheep

Demande à être étirée ;
Must be stretched ;

On l'étire, on l'étire,
It is stretched, it is stretched,

La laine du mouton.
The wool of the sheep.

V.

La laine du mouton
The wool of the sheep

Demande à être cardée ;
Must be combed ;

On la carte, on la carte,
It is combed, it is combed,

La laine du mouton.
The wool of the sheep.

VI.

La laine du mouton
The wool of the sheep
Demande à être filée ;
Must be spun;
On la file, on la file,
It is spun, it is spun,
La laine du mouton.
The wool of the sheep.

VII.

La laine du mouton
The wool of the sheep
Demande à être tordue;
Must be twisted;
On la tord, on la tord,
It is twisted, it is twisted,
La laine du mouton.
The wool of the sheep.

VIII.

La laine du mouton
The wool of the sheep
Demande à être tricotée ;
Must be knitted;
On la tricote, on la tricote,
It is knitted, it is knitted,
La laine du mouton.
The wool of the sheep.

IX.

La laine du mouton
 The wool of the sheep
Demande à être portée ;
 Must be worn ;
On la porte, on la porte,
 It is worn, it is worn,
La laine du mouton.
 The wool of the sheep.

X.

La laine du mouton
 The wool of the sheep
Demande à s'user ;
 Must be worn out ;
On l'use, on l'use,
 It is worn out, it is worn out,
La laine du mouton.
 The wool of the sheep.

Les Noces du Roitelet.

THE WREN'S WEDDING.

Aux noces du roitelet
 At the wren's wedding
L'époux est tout petit.
 The bridegroom is very small.
Il part en tournée
 He goes his rounds

Pour faire les invitations.

To invite his friends.

Venez avec un petit présent chacun
Come with a little present each of you

Car hélas ! il n'est pas riche.

For alas ! he is not rich.

J'irai, dit la corneille,

I shall go, said the crow,

Et je porterai du pain.

And I shall bring some bread.

J'irai aussi, dit la pie,

I shall go too, said the magpie,

Et je porterai une pièce de viande.

And I shall bring a piece of meat.

J'irai aussi, dit le geai,

I shall go too, said the jackdaw,

Et je porterai un pot de vin.

And I shall bring a can of wine.

J'irai aussi, dit la bécasse,

I shall go too, said the woodcock,

Et je ferai le prêtre.

And I shall be the priest.

J'irai aussi, dit la bécassine,

I shall go too, said the snipe,

Pour aider à sonner la cloche.

To help to ring the bell.

J'irai aussi, dit le coucou,

I shall go too, said the cuckoo,

Avec un tambour sur mon dos.

With a drum on my back.

J'irai aussi, dit le milau,

I shall go too, said the kite,

Et j'irai chercher de l'eau.

And I shall go and fetch the water.

J'irai aussi, dit le merle,

I shall go too, said the blackbird,

Et j'aurai de l'argent dans ma bourse.

And I shall have money in my purse.

J'irai aussi, dit le pivert,

I shall go too, said the woodpecker,

Et je porterai un faix de bois.

And I shall bring a load of wood.

J'irai aussi, dit l'alouette,

I shall go too, said the lark,

Et je chanterai au-dessus de la rivière.

And I shall sing above the river.

J'irai aussi, dit le chardonneret,

I shall go too, said the goldfinch,

Et je chanterai près de la porte.
And I shall sing near the door.

J'irai aussi, dit l'hirondelle,
I shall go too, said the swallow,

Et je chanterai sur le faîte.
And I shall sing on the roof.

J'irai aussi, dit l'épervier,
I shall go too, said the hawk,

Ensemble avec la tourterelle.
Together with the dove.

Moi aussi, dit la mésange,
I too, said the titmouse,

J'irai avec l'étourneau.
I shall go with the starling.

Moi aussi, dit le pinson,
I too, said the chaffinch,

J'irai avec la huppe.
I shall go with the hoopoe.

Tous les oiseaux s'y trouvèrent,
All the birds were there,

Il n'y en eut qu'un seul qui ne vint pas.
One only did not come.

Aux noces du roitelet,
At the wren's wedding,

THE FIRST FRENCH BOOK.

By HENRI BUÉ, B.-ès-L.,

French Master at Merchant Taylors' School, London.

1 Vol. 176 Pages. Cloth, price 10d. New Edition, Revised.

This small book, drawn up according to the requirements of the first year will prove of the most valuable assistance to all beginners.

Adopted by the School Board for London, etc.

It contains Grammar, Exercises, Conversation and Vocabulary. Every lesson is followed by a short dialogue for conversational practices. The volume comprises the whole Accidence. The rules are stated in the clearest possible manner. A chapter on the Philology of the language, and some for reading and translation, a complete index, and two complete Vocabularies, follow the grammatical portion. Its moderate price and its completeness will make it one of the best books for use in our Middle-Class and National Schools and other large establishments.

THE SECOND FRENCH BOOK.

1 Vol. 208 Pages. Second edition, revised. Cloth, price 1s.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

One of "Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools" writes: "Thanks for your admirable First French Book, which seems to me remarkably well adapted, in respect of both scope and arrangement, for school use. It ought to be, and I think will be, largely adopted."

"This is a book, small as regards size and price, but containing in quantity at least matter which would furnish forth far larger and more pretentious volumes. M. Bué's method and treatment are excellent; to any person unacquainted with French, but wishing to study that language, or to any teacher wishing to form classes for its study, we can cordially recommend his work. Books for use in school or class are often compiled by others than teachers, and the result is not always satisfactory. M. Bué is a teacher himself, and his lessons show that he understands the difficulties his brethren may labour under, and the best means by which they can be surmounted. We are glad to learn that the volume under notice has been adopted by the London School Board."—The Irish Teachers' Journal. Feb. 2nd, 1878.

"This little book is a model both of cheapness and of completeness. In 176 pages it gives beginners the principal rules of the French accidence, thus enabling them to practise conversation after a very few
